

Private Health System

Most routine vision services are covered by separate vision insurance plans or paid for directly by patients.

First point-of-care to screening

- 1. Lack of screening sites, treating physicians, or equipment and technology in certain areas, particularly those that are rural and remote.
- 2. Variable and often confusing insurance plans, which separate medical, and vision insurance plans and contributes to lack of coordinated care.
- 3. Significant challenges in raising awareness of eye diseases contribute to delayed screening and care.

Referral to specialist

Days to weeks wait time

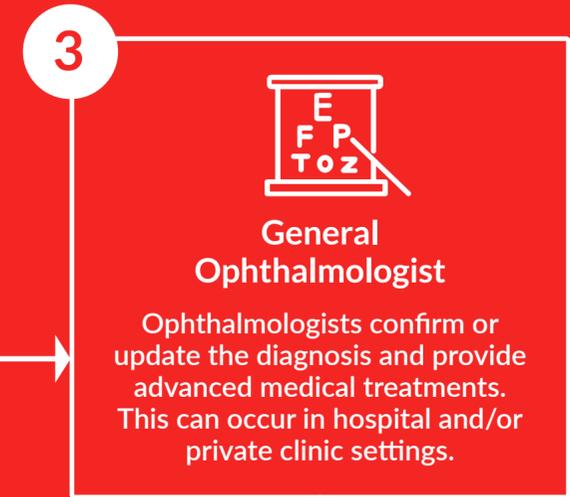

If ocular condition is suspected

If ocular condition is suspected

Confirmation of diagnosis and treatment

- 4. Access to specialists may be limited based on region, such as in rural areas, and lead to longer waiting times.

- 5. Lack of national screening programs to facilitate regular eye screenings, leading to delays in diagnoses and treatment.

- 6. While a referral pathway exists, there is no system to provide follow-ups and ensure patients are adhering to appointments, which often delays care.